

Partners:

centre for
culture,
ethnicity
& health

www.ceh.org.au

Help us to keep improving Health Translations

The Centre for Culture, Ethnicity and Health manages Health Translations. We regularly review our collection to improve your user experience and the quality of materials. However, we're a small team and we rely on the contribution of organisations from across Australia to keep Health Translations relevant and high quality. If you know of a multilingual health and wellbeing resource, produced in Australia, that is not listed, please contact us at healthtranslations@ceh.org.au.

Spread the word

Health Translations is freely available to everyone. If you have family members, colleagues, clients or friends who are looking for translated health and wellbeing information, please direct them to Health Translations.

www.healthtranslations.vic.gov.au

Health Translations

Translated information about health and wellbeing

Do you need reliable translated health and wellbeing information?

Health Translations is an online library of translated health and wellbeing resources produced in Australia.

www.healthtranslations.vic.gov.au

Our purpose

We aim to improve the health of people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds by providing access to quality translated health information.

Great for practitioners

Australian health practitioners and organisations who work with culturally and linguistically diverse communities can confidently use this site to find free reliable translated health information. All translated resources are available in English, to ensure you give your clients the correct information.

We also have a section for health professionals and service providers, with practical tools to support your work with clients from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds.

Information for you and your family

Health Translations is a free online library of high-quality translated Australian health and wellbeing information. If you or a family member has a health issue, you can search the Health Translations website to find resources in your language.

Reliable information

All resources are of a high standard and provide reliable translated health information. Each resource has been produced in Australia, translated by a NAATI-accredited translator*. Resources are regularly reviewed to ensure quality and accuracy.

*National Accreditation Authority for Translators & Interpreters

Our partners

We work in partnership with peak bodies across Australia to ensure all information reflects the highest professional and editorial standards. Our partners allow us to bring the most extensive collection of translated resources to health practitioners, other service providers and refugee and migrant communities.

Search is easy

Information can be found in a variety of ways. You can search by topics, languages, file type or organisations.

Whether you're looking for a poster for the clinic, or a video to show a low literacy client, our filter by file type search function allows faster access to quality translated resources.

Find translated resources easily with the Advanced Search function.

Search all resources

Keyword

Language

Topic

Organisation

File type

Advanced search -